Design Changes:

I prototyped a shopping cart panel for assignment 5, and expanded it to a full page for assignment 6 to better fit the requirements of the project. I used a similar grid as the product detail page to give some consistency to the site across pages.

The left side of the cart page shows modular cells with one type of item each. The right side shows a summary of the order and guides the user to check out. This layout is a design pattern seen on numerous ecommerce sites.
